December 30, 2017

Happy New Year!

As we draw a close to 2017, we would like to thank you for your ongoing support of Achilles Canada. We had a very busy year at Achilles Canada supporting over:

- 340 Achilles Athletes
- 9 Achilles Chapters
- 36 new pairs of running shoes
- Numerous PB's and qualifying times
- 18 years of the Achilles St. Patrick's Day 5K Race

Your support throughout the year helped us continue to deliver programs and events that helps our athletes reach their ultimate running and fitness goals. As we receive no government funding your support is essential to our club.

Race Report

If you have a story to tell, please send it my way and we will include in our next newsletter.

Written by Achilles athlete Michael Alzamora from Toronto:

Hi there Jared,

Thank you for a most memorable experience sharing 21.1 Km with me. I rank today's run just as likeable as my first half in Mississauga when I crossed the line in 1:43 hrs some 8 years ago.

I was somewhat disappointed when I crossed the finish in 2:13 hrs. I really wanted to go under 2 hours. So why was this Half marathon as happily memorable as my first half?

I told you I was poorly trained but I didn't tell you to what extent. I had no build up. My training consisted of running 2 times a week. One 10K and long runs of only 16K. Four weeks before the race I did a 21K LSD run.

I think it was lofty of me to ask you to guide me for under 2 hrs. I should have been more honest with you.

Despite my lack of training I came short of 2 hrs by 13 minutes. I couldn't have achieved our time without your encouragement in the final grueling kilometres. For that my friend, I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

This race was a learning experience. I am taking a lot from it:

1. I am more suited to the Half Marathon than the Full Marathon.
2. I have to be disciplined with my training. Meaning, at least a 16 week build up. This includes running at least 5 days a week, including a long build up of long runs. Something that I've been told by a lot of people is to do some speed work.
3. I was wondering if we could keep in touch via email and have you give me tips on training. I understand if your busy life doesn't allow it.

If I can summarize today's run in one sentence is I learned to deal with tough stretches in life. I learned this by pushing through the final few kilometres slowly without stopping.

Gratefully yours, Michael Alzamora

Reminders

Achilles Athletes? We need you to take a friendly and supportive leap to give swimming, biking and running a TRI. Tell us your interested in considering a triathlon for 2018! Were getting lots of interest from our able-bodied members but we really need our Achilles athletes to get involved. Let me know if your interested in participating in some great bike and running training schedule to get you inspired to then jump in a pool for a swim at the later date to get yourself ready for a TRI in 2018! Achilles athlete John Tomasino is the man behind this great new initiative for Achilles and our athletes. For more information, please contact myself.
